Wed, 01 Aug 2018 14:43:00 GMT - The Helsinki tram network forms part of the Helsinki public transport system organised by Helsinki Regional Transport Authority and operated by Helsinki City Transport in the Finnish capital city of Helsinki. The trams are the main means of transport in the city centre. 56.7 million trips were made in 2013. The Helsinki system is one of the oldest electrified tram networks in the world.

Helsinki tram network - Wikipedia -

- Helsinki's first railway station was built in 1862 to accommodate trains on the Helsinki-Hämeenlinna line, pÃÃrata. The station's plans were drawn by Swedish architect Carl Albert Edelfelt . However, as the popularity of railways grew, the station turned out to be too small, and a contest was organised in 1904 with the intention of producing plans for a new station.
